A crisis intervention is an immediate and short-term emergency response to mental, emotional, physical, and behavioral distress. Crisis interventions help to restore an individual's equilibrium to their biopsychosocial functioning and minimize the potential for long-term trauma or distress. Many crisis interventions are conducted by certified crisis intervention counselors at hospitals, clinics, social services, drug rehab centers, or an individual's home.

Every crisis is different, but all crises require immediate intervention to interrupt and reduce crisis reactions and restore affected individuals to pre-crisis functioning. Crisis interventions provide victims with emotional first aid targeted to the particular circumstances of the crisis (Rosenbluh, 1981). Several guiding principles are involved in crisis intervention; some key principles are outlined below (Shapiro & Koocher, 1996).

Crisis Interventions - SAGE Publications Ltd

Crisis counseling involves providing support and guidance to an individual or a group of people such as a family or community during a crisis. The purpose of crisis counseling is to decrease emotional pain, provide emotional support, make sure that the person in crisis is safe, and help develop a plan for coping with the situation.
