The Honda NT700V Deauville has a 680cc, liquid cooled engine. You may think this is a bit too little for a touring bike. But as we have said before, this is not completely a touring bike (at least not long distance touring). The engine livens up once you pull 3500 rpm on the throttle but do not expect the bike to cruise like a true touring bike. Speed is not this bike's forte.

Honda NT650/700V Deauville Overview Dubbed the ‘Dullsville’ by much of the motorcycling press, the NT650/700V Deauville is not the most exciting motorcycle on the planet. The V-twin motor should last forever, thanks to a low rev-ceiling and even lower compression, and it’s a Honda , so corrosion shouldn’t be too much of an issue on all but the most neglected examples.
