The U.S. military is a microcosm of the United States and contains many different groups and subgroups. Over the years, the U.S. military successfully integrated all of these different categories, except for non-heterosexuals. They serve in the U.S. Armed Forces now and they will continue to serve in the future. Legal integration certainly raises issues for the Department of Defense, but it is not a wicked problem. There is no reason to assert that non-heterosexuals cannot display the U.S. military's core values of loyalty, dedication, respect, selfless service, honor, integrity and personal courage like any other service member. This paper submits that non-heterosexuals should not be denied military membership based upon sexual orientation. This paper provides a regulatory and statutory background concerning the "Don't Ask, Don't Tell" policy and the Repeal Act of 2010, an analysis of the Repeal Act of 2010, a summary and analysis of the Report of the Comprehensive Review of the Issues Associated with a Repeal of "Don't Ask, Don't Tell" and its Support Plan for Implementation, a theoretical approach to organizational change communication, and recommendations that may add more credibility and transparency to the repeal process.

The success of previous ISU symposia suggests that the ISU has developed a unique and winning formula for a novel type of symposium. The characteristics of ISU symposia are that they: • Adopt a broad, and interdisciplinary, perspective • Address all aspects of the subject, ranging from policy, business, organisational, and legal issues to technical and scientific topics • Foster a constructive dialogue among very different sectors of the space community, and • Allow ample time for interactive discussions. The present Symposium is no exception. It considers the very timely topic of space-based systems for global positioning and navigation, ranging from the GPS system developed by the US military to the Russian GLONASS system, and on to the future European Galileo system. Other nations are planning regional augmentation systems.

"Security Flashpoints: Oil, Islands, Sea Access and Military" "Confrontation" covers a range of controversial issues rife with potential for provoking military confrontation in the world's salt water areas. Understanding the factual setting for flashpoints in the oceans requires an appreciation of the geographic circumstances of the disputants. This work starts with a global overview of island disputes provided by two leading geographers. They examine the pivotal relationship between sovereignty claims to islands and delimitation of ocean boundaries throughout the world. The most serious and complicated series of island disputes exists in the South China Sea where multiple national claims are asserted to sovereignty over the Spratly and Paracel Islands. This work gives not only an update on the status of the informal negotiations over the past several years but also the most complete insider's account so far made available in print of the unresolved issues. A suggestion is made for a constructive step toward a peaceful solution by outlining a Spratly Resource Development Agency. Another area that is brought to the attention is Southeastern Europe: the Danube River, the Adriatic Sea, the Caspian and Black Seas with particular emphasis on navigation through the Dardanelles; a definitive analysis is given of the critical freedom of navigation issues in the Strait of Hormuz as well as a comprehensive commentary on the outstanding boundary delimitation controversies in the Persian Gulf. The island and delimitation disputes in East Asian seas are also extensively discussed. The book finishes with a concept of adding political power to the legal doctrine of critical date' in settling maritimeboundary disputes. This work is of particular importance to lawyers involved in the seminal role that the Rule of Law plays for the peaceful resolution of ocean disputes. The work is based on a conference jointly sponsored by the Council on Foreign Relations, the Center for Oceans Law and Policy and the Center for National Security Law, University of Virginia School of Law.
