Landscape painting, also known as landscape art, is the depiction of natural scenery such as mountains, valleys, trees, rivers, and forests, especially where the main subject is a wide view—with its elements arranged into a coherent composition.In other works, landscape backgrounds for figures can still form an important part of the work. Sky is almost always included in the view, and ...

Landscape painting - Wikipedia

Landscape painting, the depiction of natural scenery in art. Landscape paintings may capture mountains, valleys, bodies of water, fields, forests, and coasts and may or may not include man-made structures as well as people. Although paintings from the earliest ancient and Classical periods included natural scenic elements, landscape as an independent genre did not emerge in the Western tradition until the Renaissance in the 16th century.

The Impressionist landscape and its impact. With the freedoms afforded by newly invented tools, the Impressionists moved away from Romanticism and realistic renderings, favouring a more subjective form of expression. Artists such as Claude Monet, Camille Pissarro, Pierre-Auguste Renoir, and Berthe Morisot worked outdoors— en plein air —and recorded in paint the effects of light and weather.

Chinese, 1864-1955. About this artwork. Two figures sitting quietly in their lakeside villa draw us into their vibrantly painted environment—undulating hills of cursory, fragmented outline and blurry wash; bent and twisted trees of densely layered brushstrokes; and mist, water, and sky of blank paper. Executed with different angles of the paintbrush and multiple layers and varied densities of ink, paintings of such careful synthesis and sketch-like spontaneity describe what the artist ...
